What a perfect picture of Aunt Anna... big wide smile and her straw hat...one of many straw hats over the years as i can recall.I can remeber sleep overs at her and uncle Wilfs house on king street next to jonesy variety.Playing croquet in the back yard there as a kid and the big Boxing day and New Years family get togethers at their dufferin ave home when the Thomas side got together tons of laughs and loud talking and always a game of rumoli where a few cusswords such as you shithhead or bugger you were amongst them between aunt Mary, mom and aunt Elsie could be heard or a lively game of buck euchre with the men involved in the other room.Many summers as a kid I spent earning money weeding the mini vegetable farm(they called it a garden lol..it was a farm field!!).I remember going with wilf and anna as a kid to MRS Hermans house as i knew it(aka annas mom) and being introduced to perogies for the first time..not those frozen boxed ones but real perogies hand made and they were deliscious man could Mrs Herman cook and thats where aunt Anna must have learned because she could cook up a storm.Aunt anna was a stubborn woman who spoke her mind was opinionated and strong willed but had a soft loving heart and always had a smile or kind word especially with all her loyal customers and friends that would stop in and get their flowers and vegetables over the years ..to this day when visiting at her house u can still hear many honks of the horn of people driving by and saying hi.Rest in Peace aunt Anna you are now once again with your beloved Wilf.
