I will never get that out of my mind.taking them a week to find you with snow thaw. I wish I could just get over these thoughts. . Think of you often brother love you forever❤️

Wow 6 yrs now has flew by so fast...but still is just like you are gone away but you will be back, I know that isn't true but sometimes it makes it easier to think that way your just out west with Clint or a old girlfriend the only thing is the phone doesn't ring at night anymore waking us up to it being you. I'm sorry that I couldn't deal with those night phone call sometimes but I didn't want to talk to Nicole & all the nutty stuff just you. I can only imagine what you felt like sometimes but you were always a free spirit.miss & love you brother until we meet again. We all ask for 1 more time but you know watching us all you know.

Actually it has bothered me so much that I couldn't even look at this at all last week, I think the same as you's & probably others big question is what did you go through out there & for how long, sad to say I hope it happened quick but he tried to save himself so I am thinking he had a bit of time out there by himself all alone, no one to turn back & look for him. I get a sad feeling as soon as the weather started just after family day as I remember last year how we got that snowy, blowy, rainy thing I remember now bad it was then.
