“ I was saddened to hear of your passing, DJ. For the bit of time we knew each other I enjoyed your company and appreciated your words of encouragement while I was going thru my bumps in the road of life. Thank you for the laughs and kind words, and for the Tru Religion hoodie! I'll think of you when I wear that thing lol. God rest your soul, friend. I will pray for you and your sons. Condolences to your family. In Jesus' name 🙏

“ First off. This is not bad talking Dj.. how did i know him. The first time i saw how tough dj bennet was..was when he pounced a dude on the street corner.. i thought..ok .hes willing to fight.. then years later i seen him playing pool at the cbd.. he stuck around till the end. Some words were exchanged.. well i laid hands and he head bunted me.. so i dont think many peolpe experienced that .but u know what i forgave him.i didn't say it directly but we sat together at a party and there was no beef. So to read this now is kinda surreal. Also he didnt give up..seen him working at tim hortons even after being injured. So all i can say is.. Dj..its too bad u didnt embrace your name and play music for a Career..but rest easy man.
