“ As I read all the family names who are grieving their loss, I realize how many of you I know. My condolences to all of you. I remember a time when I went to her home in Dresden to give her a haircut. She was feisty and determined to have it exactly as she wanted, lol! What stands out the most about that visit, and later, visits to the salon, was the love of her daughters, the care and kindness, I could see how much they adored their mom. May you all cherish your memories and continue to spread your family's love as you celebrate Eleanor's life while she was here on earth. Blessings to you all, through this difficult time. ❤️
