“ Mr. McClure, I have so many emotionally endearing, comedic and indelible memories of you and our time that I would probably crash this site and/or exceed the that media thresholds. You remind so much of my own father who I was born in the same year you were, was a similar great story teller, and a similar profound influence in my life. He passed over 13 years ago and somehow you took his baton to carry on as a critical father figure to me when I needed it - but with way better jokes, better craftsmanship, better gardening skills, and way cooler collectibles. I hope you and my dad are having a cigar and brandy in heaven together while playing cards - something he loved to do. Save a seat at the poker table for me and Mike when its our time to arrive, but hold the booze. I gave that up entirely months ago. Lyn was spot on with that advice. More to come.... PRC

Dear Alana, Hailey, Taylor, Blaine and family-we met your dad/grandfather when first introduced to he and Lynn. He was such a big presence with so much knowledge. We so enjoyed getting to know he and Lynn better while celebrating in the Dominican. Much love and hugs, in sympathy Alicia, Alex, Benn and Breezy 💕
