“ When I was a little girl many moons ago, I had a Mrs. Beasley doll that talked when you pulled a string in her back. I went to play with her one day and the voice box that was inside her to make her talk was missing. My big brother Jan was always curious how things worked and he had removed it so he could see exactly what made her talk. This was the first of many dismantled toys and gadgets at the hands of him. It makes me chuckle now but I can assure you at the time I did not find it funny.
