“ I am Lois's niece. Lois moved in to our building across the hall in 2015 or 2016. She proceeded to text my mother (Linda Dessurault her sister) and I every morning around 7am that the coffee was on. If that did not work she yelled out her patio door when we walked by with our dogs. It took her a year but she got us trained to be up by 7am and at her place by 8am weekend or not. The three of us would watch game shows from the 1970's and guess at the answers and laugh at how women were once treated. How they were not "politically correct" back then. She would also use this time to have me address issues with her cell phone. Most of the time it was an issue of space on her phone. She played so many games her phone would just stop working. The last week she was with us I surprised her by bathing her dog Lucy. I took Lucy to her all wrapped up like a baby and handed Lucy to her. She smirked and laughed. We were planning to have a drive in my new car but it never happened.....but I took that drive yesterday in her memory.
