“ I am so grateful to have had this man as my father inlaw. We shared many many laughs over the years and even a few tears. He was a very strong man right up until the moment he left us but when it came to his grand babies he sure was a softy. He lived a simple life. To him he had all the riches in the world with his million dollar family (Tammy & Tommy). I am thankful for all of the great memories he left not only me but to his grand babies Travis and Emery . Like everyone else they say they will never forget grandpa's silly sense of humor. Travis could count on his grandpa being at all of his baseball games He was always the first person to arrive at that the ball diamond ...most times there at least an hour before game time. But this was normal Ray was never late for anything!!! We sure are going to miss our #1 ball fan this summer. Ray embraced me into the family long before I even married his son but once I married I gained a new title I became his favourite daughter inlaw .I will always cherish that titleeven though I was your only daughter inlaw. You are greatly missed already until we meet again love you lots Windy(Wendy)

“ Dear Daddy.....

You left us today... it's a sad day 😞. So many people are reaching out to Tommy and I and sharing their happy memories of you ❤️ I knew you were liked by many Dad but it's everywhere~ everyone loved you, and I'm so proud to call you my Dad ✨
I want you to know how grateful I am for all of the love and support you have given me threw out my life. You always came over with a smile on your face and never complained about your life struggles. You were kind to everyone you came across day in and day out always calling everyone dear, and hunny ❤️. You were often inappropriate with your dirty jokes and comments but it always made people laugh ☀️. Even when you were in the hospital in Dec. when we knew you were in intense pain, you still managed to make everyone laugh, from the janitor to the stuffy Doctors 😊. I luv how you always called me your baby girl even tho I'm 40 years old. I find myself calling my children my "babies" and don't plan on stopping it any time soon. You didn't have much Dad, and you didn't want for much. You were always willing to give the shirt off your back, even to a complete stranger, and for that valuable lesson, I am thankful. As much stress as it caused your marriage to Mom, I am now able to look at the loyalty you had to Bette and Bob as a lesson. I plan to try to grow the bond with my brother because of your example ❤️. Something Tommy and I undoubtedly have in common is our love for you.

I know you don't want to hear this but Mom says "bye" she cried a lot when I told her you were gone.... I do remember the love you two once had for each other....

I loved how happy Marcia made you💕 all I ever wanted was for my Mom & Dad to experience happiness.

Frannie and Bette were sharing stories of you growing up and it makes me so happy to see their faces light up when they talk about you! Frannie was by your side in your last days, Uncle Bob kept a close eye, he's always aware even tho he doesn't say much, I hugged him today and he said "oh your hugs are so tight" 😊 I would hug you 100 more times if I could and I wouldn't let you leave after 30min of getting here.... I'd make you stay longer.... your visits were always short and sweet. No one could tie you down for too long 😊. I hope you can see us, that you can watch over us.... I know you'll have Tommy and my back wherever you are.

It was hard to watch you go Dad, your poor body was full of disease and even in your last days you didn't complain. I know your with Marcia and I hope your already up there dancing up a storm up.

Tommy and I will respect your wishes and plan a fun card game night in your honour. Everyone will be relaxed and having a good time which is what you would want ❤️ I love you now and forever and although your gone in person never in my heart.

I'm going to plant a tree from some of your ashes and put it bedside my house so whenever I wanna chat you'll be there and you won't be able to get up and leave 😊 Forewarned it may result in some deep conversations.

Love always and forever,

Your baby girl,

Tammy Xo

I'll always remember Ray and his burnt toast. I mean, who eats burnt toast!?

Ray was a guy you could sit and talk to for hours. He always had a story and he was a very pragmatic guy. His tomorrow was his today - he never seemed to worry about things and I think he was happy for it.

Marcia was everything to him and I'm so glad they met. She had to crawl back out of a dark place but Ray made it bearable for her. He deserves full credit for making her whole again.

Thanks Ray for taking care of my sister. I used to tease her about you and I think she actually liked it - I think maybe she liked you too.....
