“ When I was about 10 years old, Robert and I were down by the old bandstand playing. We heard a girl shouting help, I can't swim! When we seen were she was, she came up a second time. Because I could not swim He told me to get help. Robert emptied his pant's pockets, removed his shoes, and jumped in to help her, as she was going down again. I hollered for help also, and a man came running. Robert managed to get her to the river retaining wall, and the man that came helped Robert, in getting her out of the water. After that, my brother told me I had to learn how to swim, so he taught me, and I am forever grateful that he did!!
