“ I was honored to hear Elder Susie Jones speak at a faculty retreat for St Clair College. She was a woman of great strength and courage as a survivor of the residential schools who shared her experiences so others could learn from them.

“ I would like to extend my condolences to Susie Jones’s family. As you are well aware, Susie represented herself as a strong and resilient woman. Her influence is appreciated by myself and others who were fortunate to have known her.

I met Susie Jones for the first time when I began teaching at Walpole Island Elementary School in 1998. At that time, Susie was chair for the board of education. Susie along with other strong members of the board wanted to affect change in the school and to address the problems that were causing students to quit secondary school.

From the very beginning, Susie was my role model. She “walked her talk” with her no nonsense approach to problem solving. Over the years her influence guided me and I would ask myself, “What would Susie do?”

To sum it all up, she taught me the following:

- What are YOU going to do about it?
- Always begin with the end result in mind;
- If you mess up and make mistakes, admit it and move on;
- Even if you are tired, go to work; (She was right)

The most important message that Susie passed on to me, was that the goal for education should promote a balanced lifestyle. In other words, children should be equipped to meet the future by living a healthy life, physically, mentally and spiritually.

Dear Susie, you will be missed by all of us, however your legacy and influence will live on. Miigwech and Thank You for being you.

“ I am so honoured to have met Susie just last month with my students (as well as my young daughter) at Nindawaabjig where we taught our first traditional ecological knowledge field course at Bkejwanong through the University of Windsor. Susie spent the morning with us, sharing stories of the residential schools experience, and was wonderful to meet. We are honoured to have had presence and we will look for ways to continue to honour her legacy and life. Miigwech Susie, and condolences to the family.

“ My sincerest condolences to Susie's family and friends. I have been so fortunate to know and learn from Susie over the past few years. Every time I was with Susie, we shared great laughs and had such deep conversations together. She taught me so much about our history, about today, and the importance of knowing oneself and standing for the messages and legacy you want to leave behind. Susie never gave up in her desire to spread truth and build understanding among educators and students and everyone that wanted to learn. She took everyone from their starting point and brought them along their journey towards understanding. Susie was an amazing woman and an inspiration who was always up for a challenge. I will miss her dearly and am a better person for having spent time with her. Baamaapii Susie!

My deepest condolences to all the family of this remarkable woman, Susie Jones. I was privileged to have met Susie while working with the Children of Shingwauk IRS health support program. She was always a pleasure to be around; very kind and genuine and always happy to see you. I really did love her as a person and always looked forward to seeing her when she attended meetings or events. I will miss her deeply. Rest in peace Susie. I know you will continue to shine in the heavens above as you are welcomed by all your ancestors. You did a good job here on earth and will not be forgotten. With love and respect, Lois Palmer

My condolences to Susie Jones's family. I will truly miss her because of all of the valuable information we shared and understood about residential Schools. The effects of those schools impact the minds of our people to this day and year. I personally visited shingwauk and prayed for our people who lost their lives there and the ones that were deeply traumatized. The truth is coming out through books such as the Circle Game. Creator bless Susie and our grandmothers and grandfathers continue to guide her on her journey.

“I had the privilege of working with Susie when we were both on the Board of Education together. After that I worked with her on the W.I. Organic Gardening Project for over 10 years. Susie was a vast treasure of spiritual wisdom and encouragement to me. She was a tireless force of energy who always “had her ducks in order”. Her inspiration to this community will be greatly missed by the Dodge family.”

“ I met Susie 5 years ago when I supported the Aboriginal Education Council (Centennial College) as the Assistant to the Council recording notes at Council meetings. She was a remarkable woman, kind and so full of life. She had a passion for life and the community. It was a blessing that our paths crossed and she always had wonderful words of wisdom. I will miss Susie and her beautiful smile.

Always,

“ So shocked to hear about Susie's passing. She was an incredible blessing to all of us that she taught the truth to. I am one of the staff members at Ursuline College "The Pines" who helps leads our Kidwin Zhingwaak group. She not only helped our group but the whole school community understand the effects of our past. Her memory and story will live on in the kids and staff she touched during her time with us. May all of you find comfort and peace in the love and support of your family, friends and strangers who were fortunate to walk with Susie in this life.

“ I was so sorry to hear the news of Susie's passing. I remember her as kind and always smiling. She and Vernon were good friends to my parents, and my folks thought highly of them both. I recently watched an interview where she talked of her childhood in the residential school...she was so good and informative with so much information that I did not know. I had not seen her in years, but she was a wonderful presence in my childhood in Dryden and I share the grief of her family.
