“ How do you possibly find the words to describe a man who was more than just an uncle. Although we always shared a special bond by both of us sharing the name Wilfred we were more commonly known as Hump or Worm. Sometimes even big Wilf and little Wilf lol. I remember the sleepovers at your house on King street by the variety store, the early morning fishing trips for perch or pickeral with you and Dad and Uncle Ron. The summers hoeing and picking weeds out of your garden or flowers. You were a hard working man. You will be missed by all your friends and customers. I will miss driving by and seeing you sitting in your chair in the driveway. You fought a hard battle but yet I never heard you complain. Rest In Peace Uncle Wilf. You are missed already
